KEANE ON LUTHER.

The Life and Work of the Great Reformer as Viewed from the Catholic Stand-

Right Rev. J. J. Keane, bishop of Richmond, delivered a lecture last evening at Lincoln hali Right Rev. J. J. Keane, bishop of Richmond, delivered a lecture last evening at Lincoln hall for the benefit of the new St. Patrick's church, his subject being "Martin Luther." The hall was well filled, and although the lecture lasted more than two hours the deepest interest was maintained to the end. The bishop wore a purple gown, and had a gold chain around his neck. He began his lecture by saying that lew men had ever lived who, had so greatly influenced the world as Martin Luther. At the time he was born the middle ages were drawing to a close. The church lad, for a thousand years, been trying to Christianize the barbarians who had overthrown the Roman empire, finedalism was fast giving way to popular institutions; men were chaining under restraint; and were ready to take up new ideas and new dectrines. The lecturer gave a sketch of Luther's early life, and the influences which moded his character. Even while a novitate, he was impulsive, vehement, erratic, constantly vibrating from one extreme to another, and losing sight of the truth which lies between. His original and atriking views, bowever, made him popular with those who were reaching at a sire something new. His special study was the writings of St. Augustine against Peiagins on the doctrine of grace and instification. Luther caught the argument of St. Augustine, and like many another enthusiast could only see half the truth and was intolerant of the other half.

The lecturer gave some account of Luther's controversies with John Eck and others before he broks with the church, and with pictorial eloquence sketched the great controversy between the reiorming monk and the church. When Emperor Charles V summoned him before the diet at Worms to answer touching his heredes, and when he appeared he was saked if he was ready to retract. A day was given him to consider the question, and when he appeared again the declarating his belief, but the great question of sith and conduct. He appeared again the declared he would retract nothing, and that he held his o for the benefit of the new St. Patrick's church, his Germany; every town had its enthusiasts, who experimed the word according to the light that was within them.

Hishop Keane devoted a good deal of time to the discussion of the dogma of total depravity as expounded by Luther, and to other docurines which divide the Catholic and Protestant churches, lie regarded Luther's power and influence as due to the times in which he lived. If he had been born in this country he would have made no more impression on the Catholic church than Hyaninhe or Dellinger. Last mouth the world was ringing with his praise; was he a man of God—a blessing to mankind? Let the facts of his life atswer. The lecturer here quoted from Protectant authority to show that Luther was coarse in his manners, intolerant, vulgar, and in this age would not pass for a gentleman.

When the bishop saked the question, Was Luther right or wrong? some one in the gallery embasissed the speaker and amused the audience by calling out "wrong."

Senator Vance's Bill to Regulate Street-Car Travel in Washington.

Senator Vanco Introduced in the senate yester day a bill to regulate street par travel in the district. It proposes to amend the acts incorporating the Washington and Georgetown and the Metrothe Washington and Georgetown and the Metropolitan Street railroads so as to make them read as follows: That the company shall piace first-class cars on its railways, with all the modern improvements for the convenience and comfort of passengers, and shall run cars thereon during the doy from the hours of 6 a.m. until 12.70 at night; that between 2 a.m. and 7 p.m. cars shall be run at intervals of not more than three minutes, and for the rest of the time at not more than seven minutes, but cars may be run as much oftener as public convenience may require. And no large boxes, market baskets, or baskets containing clothing or the like, shall be carried or received within the cars or any of them; but if the company shalt be willing to carry boxes or baskets it shall provide space for them outside or shall run cars soecially for such purpose. Any president, superintendent, conductor, car driver, or other officer or agent of the company who shall violate any provision of this section or who shall offer or permit any such violation shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished, upon information made or filed in the police court of the District of Columbia, with a fine not to exceed the aum of $100 for any one offense, to be enforced as other fines and penalties are enforced in said police court.

Sec. 2. That each of said cars or carriages shall forced as other fines and penalties are enforced in said police court.

Sec. 2. That each of said cars or carriages shall be provided with both a driver and a conductor; and any failure of the company to comply with the provisions of the section, after the end of six months after the date of the approval hereof, shall be deemed a misdementor on the the part of the president and directors of the company, and shall be punished as provided for violations of the provisions of the preceding section.

Sec. 3. That if the drivers or conductors of any cars on these reads, or upon any other street railways or carriages for the transportation of passengers in the city of Washington, shall admit therein any passengers for whom there is no seat, no fare for such passengers shall be exacted.

Senator Ingalls's Bill to Fund the Indebtedness of This City, and Other Financial Matters.

A bill was introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Ingalls to fund stock, Heus, and bonds in the District of Columbia, and for other purin the District of Columbia, and for other purposes. It enacts that all 8 per centura bonds issued upon special assessment made against property of citizens of the District of Columbia to redeem these bonds, all corporation assessment upon which bonds and stock were issued, and all other bonded indebtedness or liens upon property, shall be funded in a 3-65 bond of the District of Columbia, payable at ten years. It provides also for a key of one-eighth of 1 per centum against the real extate of the District of Columbia to meet the interest, and to fund the principal at maturity. That all damages occasioned by the set of the late board of public works shall be assessed, together with the benedis, and $1,030,000 shall be the extent of said damages throughout the city; and after advertisement in the city papers of Washington. District of Columbia, for thirty days, there shall be no further claims received, and should the damages, upon final computation, exceed $1,000,000, the amount pro rata shall be made to all who will receive the amount so allowed and give a receipt that no application shall ever after be made. That all corner lots and triangular and trincated lots and squares shall be equalized with lots in the interior of squares per square foot of the lot adjoining in same square when assessed for special improvements; that all contracts made in 1850 and completed in 1870, shall have the same credits the II. D. Cooke assessment received when second assessments were subsequently made and paid for. That all unfinished street assessments shall be annualled, and all alley assessment and drawback certificates issued for the amount refunded, which shall be receivable for all acrearages of taxes to January, 1855, and all special taxes. Provision is made for the appointment of three commissioners to execute the provisions of the ec. poses. It enacts that all 8 per centura bonds is-

The Telephone Wires. In speaking of the pending negotiations be-tween the telephone company and themselves, the district commissioners say that their object in redistrict commissioners say that their object in requiring a deposit of $2,500 from the company is simply to insure the completion of the underground cable between the date fixed and the consequent removal of the poles from Fourteenth street. It is a simple business transaction. The high character of the members of the telephone company and the well-known integrity of the managers are guarantees to the commissioners of the company's carnestness, and it is probable that the negotiations will be completed in a few days. The company represents a capital of over $10,000,000, and the individual members are distinguished for business enterprise and irreproachable integrity of character.

Another Ox Gored.

Leon Howard, a colored member of the Tennessee state senate, was yesterday appointed a messenger in the house by Doorkeeper Wintersmith, on the application of Congressman Casey Young. Howard was elected last fall on the republican ticket from a Memphis district, but has since changed his political complexion. State Senator Stephens, of Virginia, was recently compelled to resign his sanatorship in order to retain his eleckship in the pension office, the democrate in the Virginia senate threatening to unseat him in the Virginia senate threatening to unseat him if he did not resign. They claimed that he could not hold a federal appointment and a state office at the same time. Howard's case is precisely similar, and it will be interesting to note whether his democratic colleagues will force him to resign from the Tennessee state senate.

FOR THE RIFLE'S BENEFT.

A Brillant and Successful Entertainment

Yesterday's performance at Ford's opera house for the benefit of the National Rifles by the Energon the benefit of the National Rifles by the Energon Grand Concert combination drew a full house, while the programme was one deserving the application of the transpose of the largest sized audience the operamose can hold. The gron of the evening was undoubtedly the exquisite rendition of Schubert's sereinade, dust for sopraine and correct, by Miss Schemel at the plann. W. Felham's humorous recitations elicited much laughter, and the violin solos of Mr. Charles F. Higgins (Weniawski's Fanissic de Faust and Spunish Dance) were heartily encored. The National Rifles were at their best in the exhibition drift during the last part of the programme, and fairly excelled themselves. Their masterly evolutions were greeted with warm applaine. The entire reformance passed off in the mot creditable manner, and deserves notice as perhaps the most successful of the assacts. It will be repeated with additional attractions to-night and to-morrow night. at Ford's.
